

Discover Tidbinbilla

Tidbinbilla offers outstanding wildlife and natural experiences and is set within a beautiful valley framed by granite-topped mountains.

Tidbinbilla offers outstanding wildlife and natural experiences. Discover this beautiful valley and its natural landscape. Enjoy the range of walking trails, meander through the Sanctuary wetlands, find a koala in the eucalypt forest, or relax with friends and family with a picnic or barbecue amongst the kangaroos and emus.

A unique history

Aboriginal people have had a continuous association with the Tidbinbilla area for at least 21,000 years. It is the traditional Country of the Ngunnawal people. Neighbouring clans travelled through or stayed in this region, trading artefacts and knowledge, celebrating marriages and undertaking important ceremonies. The name 'Tidbinbilla' comes from 'Jedbinbilla', meaning 'where boys become men', referring to initiation ceremonies on the mountain tops.

The Tidbinbilla Valley also reflects the European history of the area. Century old rammed earth cottages and evidence of farming and eucalyptus oil distillation provide graphic reminders of the pioneers who tried to make a life here from the mid 1800s.

Natural places

Discover Tidbinbilla's outstanding wildlife, natural beauty and diverse habitats. The beautiful and serene Tidbinbilla Valley protects wetlands, grasslands, woodlands and eucalypt forest habitats. Higher up, wet fern gullies, mountain streams and sub-alpine forests occur.

Tidbinbilla is part of the Australian Alps national parks, a series of parks and reserves that span Australia's south-eastern high country. The Australian Alps are National Heritage listed, recognising that its natural and cultural values are of outstanding national significance.

Recreation

Recognised as Canberra's leading ecotourism attraction, Tidbinbilla offers outstanding wildlife and nature-based experiences in a natural setting as well as opportunities to find out about the conservation initiatives at Tidbinbilla. At the Visitor Centre you can explore the interpretation gallery, then have a coffee or light meal at the Tidbinbilla kiosk. In the Tidbinbilla shop you can search for a unique memento of your visit. In the reserve itself you can enjoy a picnic or barbecue with family and friends at one of the many picnic areas while the children enjoy the Nature Discovery Playground.

Ranger-guided activities are popular with visitors and can be booked online at www.tidbinbilla.com.au. Experience wonderful wetland wildlife in the Sanctuary, find a koala in the eucalypt forest or watch for platypus at Black Flats Dam or in the Sanctuary. For the more energetic, there are the mountain bike trails around Jedbinbilla and Gibraltar Peak. If walking is more your style, then there are over 20 marked walking trails ranging from an easy short stroll to an all day bushwalk. Overnight accommodation is available at Nil Desperandum, an historic rammed earth cottage and can be booked through: www.bookings.act.gov.au

Conservation

Successful breeding programs for the critically endangered Southern Brush-tailed Rock-wallaby, the Tasmanian Bettong and the Northern Corroboree Frog are managed at Tidbinbilla. You can see Northern Corroboree Frogs at the Tidbinbilla Visitor Centre. At the Rock-wallaby habitat you may glimpse this shy wallaby basking on a rock.

Tidbinbilla also protects a wide range of other wildlife including koalas, emus, kangaroos, platypus, wombats, potoroos, wallaroos, possums, water birds and much more.

The Sanctuary

The Sanctuary at Tidbinbilla offers fabulous opportunities to experience nature. A wetlands ecosystem, surrounded by bushland and protected by a predator-proof fence, provides a safe refuge for a range of native animals. Stroll along a wheelchair accessible pathway past a series of interconnected ponds. Search for platypus from the boardwalks, observe the resident and migratory bird life, explore granite outcrops or get up close to our reptiles. Volunteer interpreters will share their knowledge and passion for the bush with you on weekends, public and school holidays.

A place for learning

Ranger-guided talks at Tidbinbilla can be booked. For more information go to www.tidbinbilla.com.au

Adjacent to Tidbinbilla is Birrigai, offering environmental and outdoor educational overnight camps and day programs (linked to the Australian curriculum) for schools, corporate and community groups using purpose-built accommodation and catering facilities.

A place for volunteering

If you have a passion for the natural environment and enjoy sharing it with others, then why not join the Friends of Tidbinbilla ParkCare group, the Tidbinbilla Pioneers Association or the team of volunteer interpreters managed by CVA. Full training is provided.
